Guide to Sixth Sense Training Limited

What do we do?

We specialise in Problem Solving and Partnership working.

How do we do this?

We deliver training courses, provide strategic and tactical advice and facilitate problem solving sessions.

Who are we?

We are all very experienced in Problem solving and working in Partnerships and have been employed all around the UK. We are all experienced trainers who know how best to put across the content in an informative and entertaining way.

We have thousands of very satisfied people and their comments are available for viewing. We can also provide testimonials and put you in touch with people we have trained. A good indication of our courses is the amount of repeat business and recommendations.

"It seems ages ago that you first got the contract for Bristol. From our point of view you have delivered a superb product which is now started to embed into our day to day work. ID PARTNERS has become our way of doing business and I hope that we have now got a sustainable model in Bristol. I have been so impressed with you and your training package that I would not hesitate to recommend Sixth Sense to colleagues".

Rick Palmer. Community Safety Manager – Safer Bristol 2010

Where do we train?

We come to you, so it reduces your travelling time and costs.

Support for those trained

Those attending are provided with free follow up support. You would need to provide the training room and any refreshments. This is a very popular arrangement as it really keeps down the costs for everyone. Either email or phone me on 07759 538 364.

Details about myself Neil Henson, the Director.

I have been involved full time in Problem Solving and Partnership work since 1998. When I am not in class delivering training, I am examining problems, facilitating sessions and providing advice and support to other practitioners.

In 2001 I received a Camden Borough Police Commendation for developing Problem Solving for a £2 Million Partnership based programme. In 2006 I received a Metropolitan Police Commendation for Mainstreaming Problem Solving across London.

I was the Winner of the Home Office Tilley Award for Organisational Support in Problem Solving and Partnership working.

I am the author of the popular book "Who shares your problem?"
